Use Great Power of Truth

Big Program of Information is Drafted in The Interest of Peace

WASHINGTON, July 5—(AP)—Secretary Acheson today said the State Department, on orders from President Truman, has drafted a big new information program "to use the great power of truth in working for peace."

The new plan now is being considered by the President, Acheson told a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee.

The secretary said the broader and stronger information and education program is dedicated to carrying out principles and purposes set forth in a resolution by Senator Benton (D-Conn.).

Benton's resolution, now before the subcommittee, calls for a "Marshall plan of ideas," including a vast increase in "Voice of America" broadcasts overseas.

Generals George C. Marshall and Dwight D. Eisenhower, wartime Allied commanders in Europe, gave strong support to Benton's plan for his proposal aimed at countering Russia's world propaganda campaign against this country.

"Campaign of Falsehood" Acheson said the U.S. has been a special target of a Communist campaign of "falsehood and abuse" which "jeopardizes the security of the United States, and is a threat to the security of the free world."

He said the Red efforts to misrepresent and discredit the American way of life and America's foreign policy have "primarily a great strategic value in the furtherance of Communist world objectives."

In reply to a question by Senator Lodge (R-Mass.), Acheson said his department needs no additional authority to carry on the broader program contemplated. But, he said, it will need more money.

The House has approved a $34,000,000 budget for the Voice of America program next year. One Senator said the Senate Appropriations committee has trimmed this amount to $32,000,000.

The secretary said totalitarian regimes cannot flourish where the truth is fully available.

Along this line, Eisenhower told the Senators that "truth could almost be classified as our T-bomb (truth bomb) in this warfare." But, he said, it will require careful planning to know when it is better to convert a dollar into a tank or this program.

For such planning, Eisenhower suggested it might be wise to set up "a general staff" consisting of top U.S. leaders from all fields to plan a program of truth for the world. He suggested this staff possibly should be outside of the State Department.

"I'm not suggesting there are not a lot of brains here in Washington now," Eisenhower added later, explaining that Washington leaders now are busy and overworked.

Advises Caution Marshall told a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee the United States should have a dynamic information program. But he also cautioned that "we must not stretch ourselves too far in appropriations."

Marshall was Army chief of staff in World War II and later served as secretary of state.

Eisenhower, told Senators he is "in complete and absolute accord" with the proposals for countering Russian propaganda.

Both former generals were in civilian clothing. They spoke informally from pencilled notes.

"What we are actually talking about here is the morale factor in any struggle," Eisenhower said, adding that an essential in morale is "an understanding of the issues involved."

Citing a need for the kind of program proposed by Benton, Eisenhower said the United States had moved into Korea "with the very best of intentions"—to preserve the independence of the South Korean republic.

But he said the move has been "so twisted by shrewd propagandists" for the Communists that it has been made to look like a "vicious" act of American imperialism.

Liberty Statue Replica is Unveiled

Boy Scouts And Hundreds Hear Rev. Campbell Speak

Several hundred people attended the unveiling and dedication of the replica of the Statue of Liberty on the northwest corner of the court house lawn at 9:45 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The eight foot statue stands on a stone base on which is the copper plaque with the following inscription: "With the faith and courage of their forefathers, who made possible the freedom of these United States, the Boy Scouts of America dedicate this replica of the Statue of Liberty as a pledge of everlasting fidelity and loyalty. 40th Anniversary Crusade to Strengthen the Aim of Liberty, 1950."

The erection of the statue by the Boy Scouts was made possible by co-operation of citizens of Sedalia who contributed time, money, materials, skilled workmanship, labor and various other things necessary for the erection.

A truck from the Parkhurst Manufacturing company, decorated with bunting loaned by the Raines Decorating company served as the speakers platform, and the loud speaker system was donated by Cecil's Radio shop.

G. Patrick Danville served as master of ceremonies and the program began with two musical selections by Hubbard high school band.

Scout Oath and Pledge Invocation was by Rev. T. W. Croxson, followed by the Scout Oath by Scout Andrew Chancellor, Troop 34 and the Pledge of Allegiance by Cub Scout Frank Dorsey, Boy Scout 55.

Selections by Hubbard band. The principal address, "Strengthening the Aim of Liberty," was given by the Rev. E. C. Campbell, pastor of the Fifth Street Methodist church. The address follows:

"Arms of Liberty" Dr. H. U. Campbell, pastor of the Fifth Street Methodist church, in opening his address told of the Statue of Liberty at Ellis Island, entry to New York harbor, describing its size in comparison with the replica here. He stated the replica was one-nineteenth its size.

"The real, and larger Liberty statue, the speaker asserted, was conceived and started by French children contributing pennies in 1881 toward its being placed at the gate-way to America's shores."

CITY COUNCIL Sidelights

Just when business was going along smoothly after the park board appointments dilemma had been solved at city council Monday night, the bomb boomed over again when it came to considering the cook situation at the Negro hospital.

Republican Mayor Herb Studer proposed to the Democratic council the name of Mrs. Mildred Stoebe as cook. "I have been informed by the superintendent of nurses," the mayor said, "that during the last two weeks Mrs. Stoebe's work has been very satisfactory. She has also advised me that being a former nurse, Mrs. Stoebe would be capable of assuming nurse's duties if the need should ever arise. It would be extremely fortunate to have a person of this type in the employment of the city."

Councilman Summers queried the mayor about the identity of the proposed appointee and suggested he would not want to confirm the appointee at this time until further recommendations had been obtained.

The mayor said he would agree there, to withhold the appointment until next meeting.

At this juncture Councilman Moore arose and recommended the appointment of Dorothy Burnham as cook at the Negro hospital.

"I will not make that appointment," replied Mayor Studer. "Such appointments are vested in the mayor."

Councilman Moore then appealed to the council to back up his recommendation. All voted "yes."

Mayor Studer: "Now do you want me to appoint her? I will not sign her payroll warrant."

Councilman Summers: "What'll you do for a cook?"

Mayor Studer: "We have one now."

Councilman Reed asked for the confirmation of Mr. Moore's motion which was seconded by Councilman Elsworth.

On the motion for appointment of Dorothy Burnham, which the mayor refused to make, Councilman Summers, as chairman, called for the vote, all councilmen voting "yes."

Mayor Studer: "You gentlemen, by your actions have taken away the right of the mayor to appoint city employees. Your action is illegal. I will not pay her salary unless made to do so in the courts."

This brought ascending applause from the audience which reached the council chamber.

Resuming the mayor pointed out, "If you can do that (appoint at hospital) you can make all appointments, or even have a third party make them, like Mr. Ellsworth."

"Why pick on my name?" exclaimed Councilman Reed.

All-Time High For Holiday Death Toll

Accidents in Four Day Week-end Take 783 Lives

By The Associated Press

The nation's holiday toll of accidental deaths reached a new all-time high of 783 during the four-day Independence day week-end. The previous record—751—was set in 1936.

Traffic accidents in 47 states and the District of Columbia claimed 482 of the total number of persons killed. Only Delaware had an unblemished record.

In addition 178 lives were lost by drowning and 122 died in miscellaneous accidents of violent nature. Fireworks, once the major cause of Independence day deaths, claimed only one victim—in South Dakota.

The count of fatalities was limited to those occurring in activities related to the holiday celebration. They did not include suicides or other violent deaths that had no holiday connection.

The terrific number of deaths from traffic mishaps was called "outrageous" by the president of the National Safety Council, which had predicted that only 385 should die in this fashion. The total death, which averaged about one every 10 minutes.

Went For Fireworks in a Really Big Way This Year

It's the day after the Fourth of July and this is Monday's day with the fireworks, the day and night and clear up and the moon after Pop and the kids have shot off fireworks and other bits of fireworks and other pieces of evidence that the Fourth of July was celebrated there, and children look carefully to see if they can find a few firecrackers that just didn't happen to go off.

Sedalia's really went all out on fireworks this year. Not only did the constant sound of exploding firecrackers ring in the air almost all night for several days but the display of sky-rockets, roman candles and other types of colorful balls of light were in the sky from all directions the entire evening of the Fourth after the first sign of dusk appeared. A few, which perhaps were not heeded right, zoomed down out of the sky into yards, several blocks away. There was the fear of the giant firecrackers.

Join Young in Big Noise But most people had fun. The children, looking on, the dads, the grandpas, the uncles and big brothers in their glory doing the job of shooting off the big displays and most of the women watching and wishing that there were more of the pretty ones and less noisy ones. This year it seemed that people had more fireworks than ever, and after they had more, they still didn't want more—in fact some went back several times to get more, after what they had were gone.

Yes, along with the unveiling of the replica of the Statue of Liberty, the family gathered the picnic and the exquisite exhibit of fireworks all over town. It was a really big Fourth of July.

City Budget Was Passed Monday Night

E. G. Lewis Criticizes Council Policy For American Legion

The City Council met in regular session Monday night in the Council chambers at the city hall with Mayor Herb Studer presiding. The meeting had less fire than those in recent weeks, but the council and the mayor remained separated by differences of opinion.

For the most part the meeting consisted of general business routine with few names offered for appointments, by the mayor.

Discussion On Budget The finance committee submitted the city budget for the year and it was approved by the seven councilmen in attendance. John Vandekamp, fourth ward alderman is still on vacation in Europe.

After the budget was presented Emory Elsworth, Third ward councilman and member of finance committee asked why $600 had been cut off the amount set up for the transportation allowance of City Engineer, Jim Collins. He brought out that in a meeting of the mayor and finance committee, that the mayor and committee had agreed to the allowance. A discussion followed and Councilman Summers chairman of the committee recommended to the council that the budget be accepted as it stands.

Summers went on and explained why some of the deep cuts were made in various departments. The roll call vote was taken and all councilmen approved, after the $600 had been restored by Mayor Studer.

Elsworth also said he wanted to go on record publicly that he opposed a cut of $5,000 which was to be spent on the West Sedalia fire station, which was to have gone to repair the building. The councilman explained the building needed the necessary repairs to protect the two new fire trucks in the building. He told of the flooring being in very bad condition. "I agreed to the reduction, as suggested by the mayor," Elsworth said.

J. M. Bailey Is Appointed A. Pote, Mercedes made a motion for the council to appoint J. M. Bailey as city clerk, back to May 1st. The motion was seconded and the council voted its approval.

John Luck and William Middleton, were re-appointed to the offices of fire chief and assistant fire chief, respectively.

Mayor Studer said that he felt

Mild Sanction By Snyder to Excise Slash

Endorsement is Given Corporation Tax Boost

WASHINGTON, July 5—(AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Snyder today gave a limited endorsement to the House-approved bill cutting excise taxes by $1,010,000,000 and raising levies on big corporations.

He told the Senate Finance committee, however, that improvements should be made and recalled President Truman's recommendation for increased taxes on oil and gas producers. The House turned that down.

With words of mild criticism, Snyder implied, too, that he feels the House went too far with excise taxes. He commented that the proposed cut from 20 to 10 percent in the tax on admissions to movies, theaters and other amusements would cost the government "a little over $200,000,000."

He noted also that President Truman had suggested repeal of the 3 percent tax on freight bills while the House had voted only to halve it.

Snyder endorsed without qualification the proposed revisions in the corporation taxes which would boost corporation tax bills by $433,000,000 a year. The rise would fall on larger corporations. Some smaller ones would get a cut.

Lions' Speaker Rev. Roy L. Bowers

"A Well Adjusted Life" was the subject of an address given by the Rev. Roy L. Bowers, pastor of the First Methodist church, at the noon day meeting of the Lions club today at Bothwell hotel.

He stressed the fact that there must be a combination of the physical, mental, social and spiritual in order to have a well adjusted life and that small and petty things cause people to be upset and unhappy. I people learn to cope with the little things in life, the speaker pointed out, they will find it easier to get along with people and their happiness will be greater.

President Buchholz, president, presided over the meeting. Edgar Brown, program chairman, presented members of a male quartet, composed of Add Taylor, Dean Bunderup, Al Domingue and Charles Maggard, who sang several numbers.

Announcement was made by the president of a board meeting which will be held at the Magnolia room in the Bothwell hotel on Thursday, July 13.

Blond Doughboy First to Fall in U.S. Troops Action

By Tom Lambert

AN ADVANCED COMMAND OUTPOST IN SOUTH KOREA, July 5—(AP)—U. S. troops went into action today against North Korean forces and within two hours an American combat foot soldier was killed—the first of this war.

The soldier, an ammunition bearer for a bazooka squad, was shot through the heart by a blast from a machinegun from one of two Red tanks which his squad was trying to knock out.

The two tanks had cut off an advanced American unit from communication with supporting elements.

The blond young doughboy raised his head to take a look through a driving rain at the two Communist tanks. The tanks were parked on the railway tracks on the outskirts of Sojong, 13 miles south of Suwon. (Detailed maps show Sojong 18 miles south of Suwon.)

The bullets caught him as he looked. He coughed, cried out once, then died.

A member of another bazooka squad was wounded slightly by a fragment from a shell fired by one of the tanks.

Forecast by Observers of Soviet Move

Diplomat Looks To The Use of Red China Troops

By Stanley High

HONG KONG, July 5—(AP)—Diplomatic observers today predicted Soviet Russia is setting the stage for a surprise move against the United States in the Far East.

They said the Russians, probably would rush Chinese Communist troops from Manchuria to aid Soviet-supported North Korea in the Korean civil war.

Such a move "can be expected any time within the next month, and probably within two weeks," they added. All demanded anonymity.

One observer gave these reasons for forecasting a Soviet offensive in the Far East:

1—His country (and he declined to say its nationality as well as his name for diplomatic reasons) has "definite word" that the Chinese Reds have been massing troops in Manchuria since they captured Hainan island, off the South China coast, a month ago.

Move to North For three days, independent Chinese newspapers, here have reported intensified Communist troop movements northward from South China. My informant's word today is the first official word that this re-deployment of Chinese Red forces actually has been going on for some time, and with a definite pattern.

The diplomat added that the Chinese Red troops in Manchuria can be expected to cross into North Korea as Russia's answer to American support for invaded South Korea.

2—The recent withdrawal from Tokyo of high level members of the Soviet mission could be considered an "indication that something big is brewing." He declined to elaborate.

Air War Intensified The air war raged in Korea, with American and British carrier planes joining the fray in tough strikes Monday and Tuesday against North Korean points, including the capital, Pyongyang.

But the setback on the fighting front had the Americans anxious. The situation of the trapped Americans was reported "desperate," but some hope was held out. An undisclosed number of South Koreans were also caught.

An advanced American headquarters spokesman said there was a chance the Americans could punch their way out of the Communist pocket and make a safe withdrawal. The Americans, setting up a position south of Red-captured Suwon, had met a Red spearhead of eight tanks with artillery fire in which two Communist tanks were knocked out.

Front dispatches said the surviving Red tanks wheeled suddenly and rammed themselves between the infantry position and its supporting artillery and supplies. Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, U. S. commander in Korea, hurried to the front after failing to hear from the American forces after the reported tank-artillery engagement.

Moving South Tens of thousands of opposing soldiers were reported arrayed on the South Korean battlefields, and a U. S. liaison plane reported new Red forces of undetermined strength moving southeast from Suwon, taken by the Communists yesterday.

Mangrum Won Motor City Golf Tourney

Champ May Have Touched Off Minor Feud With Snead

DETROIT, July 5.—(P)—Chain-smoker Lloyd Mangrum won $2,000 top prize money in the Motor City Open golf tournament yesterday, but may have touched off a minor feud with Sammy Snead while doing it.

The dapper Chicagoan nosed out Snead by the stroke, coming from behind in the final nine holes of the 72-hole play to win with 274.

Snead, No. 1 money winner among the nation's golf pros this year, blew a three-stroke lead on that final nine, climaxing his day by missing a four-foot putt for a birdie on the 18th hole.

Mangrum reportedly lashed Sam Snead when he went to the locker room after the match and jokingly congratulated Sam on missing the putt.

Snead left hurriedly. Several pros and club members who saw the incident said Snead made no reply. Snead dressed quickly and left the club house without taking part in ceremonies attending presentation of prizes.

Neither of the principals was available for comment as Mangrum also left right after the brief ceremonies.

Mangrum, Snead and Fred Haas Jr., of Claremont, Calif., were in a three-way tie at 204 as the day's play got underway. But it soon settled to a two-way duel as former intercollegiate champion Haas ran into troubles and took a 74.

Two birdies on the back nine aided Mangrum to post a 70—two under par—while Snead had two bogies on those same nine holes and came in with a 71 for a 275 total.

Another Oddity Added to Majors

NEW YORK, July 5.—(P)—The average major league baseball crowd for July 4, 1950—28,531. The average major league baseball crowd for July 4, 1949—28,531.

That's right, your eyes are okay. It's just another oddity added to the many strange things which baseball has produced this season.

There was less baseball yesterday than on Independence Day in 1949, so the only way to make comparison of attendance figures is on the basis of averages, rather than totals for the two days.

A year ago, doubleheaders were played at all eight major league parks and at one of them—Brooklyn—entertaining Philadelphia in the National League—they had morning and afternoon games with two admissions. Yesterday, there was action at only seven parks. Philadelphia at Boston in the American League was rained out.

Biggest baseball throng yesterday was the 49,316 at the Polo Grounds where the New York Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers split. The four National League parks attracted 112,688 fans against 118,418 in 1949.

The total for the three American League parks was 87,026. A year ago, the circuit's full schedule drew 138,363.

For both leagues yesterday, the total was 199,714. In 1949, it was 256,781.

Honolulu Golfer in Top Spot of Tourney

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 5.—(P)—Many members of the National Public Links golf tourney gallery liked the championship chances of an unemployed paper goods salesman from Hawaii today.

Others stood by a San Francisco prowl-car policeman and some warned to watch out for a Phoenix lumberman.

The unemployed paper salesman whose play has carried him to a top spot among the still-unconfirmed favorites is Frank Ruckiewicz of Honolulu, long-hitting "Sam Snead of the Islands."

His terrific tee shots took him to a ridiculously easy 8 and 1 victory in yesterday's second round.

Ken Towns, the Frisco "flat-foot" and defending champion, added to his stature yesterday as he scored a methodical 2 and 1 decision over Jack Russell of Memphis, going just two over par in the effort.

Allen Thum, the Phoenix lumberman, picked up some supporters when he toured the first nine in one under par. He coasted in to a 1-up triumph over Ralph Hall of Oakland, Calif.

Today's doubled-up action figured to reduce the field to 16 golfers of the 210 that started Monday. Two 18-hole rounds were scheduled.

The process will be repeated tomorrow to cut the list to semi-final size. The semifinals will cover 36 holes Friday, as will the title match Saturday.

Roundup of Big Leagues On Tuesday

By Joe Reichler
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Phillies and Tigers to clash in the 1950 world series — that's what the signpost says.

If tradition is to be upheld, then the second place Philadelphia club in the National league and the first place Detroit team in the American should win the flags.

Baseball Legend
For years, baseball men have believed the legend that the teams in first place on Independence day were almost certain to meet in the world series. That is only a half-truth.

Data for the past 15 years shows that 13 of the American league pace setters on that significant July 4 marker have gone on to win pennants. In the National league, only seven have fulfilled this legend.

Of the eight trailing clubs to win in the National, five rose 5-4 in the first game but dropped from the runnerup spot to overtake the leaders. So it appears that the second place Phils, not the front-running St. Louis Cardinals, stand almost as good a chance of winning the pennant.

Twin Bill Victories
Of the seven holiday, double-headers played (rain washed out the Athletics-Red Sox twin bill in Boston), only the Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds won both games. The Cards whipped the Chicago Cubs, 4-1 and 4-3, to pick up a full game on the Phils. The Reds pulled two and a half games away from the last place Pittsburgh by smacking the Pirates twice, 8-4 and 5-4.

In a pair of swiftness, the Phils trampled the Braves, 14-5 in the opener, but Boston came back to win the second, 12-9. The New York Giants shaded the Dodgers, 5-4, in the first game but dropped the second, 5-3.

Tigers Divide Games
Detroit lost a half game off its lead when it divided a double-header with the Chicago White Sox while the Yankees gained a victory and a tie against Washington. The Yankees won the opener, 16-9, then saw the second game halted by darkness after nine innings with the score deadlocked at 3-3.

The St. Louis Browns whipped Cleveland, 8-3, after the Indians won the opener 8-7.

Junior American Legion Game Was Called Off

The Junior American Legion baseball game, to have been played in the afternoon of July 4 in Warrensburg between the Sedalia Post 16 team and the Warrensburg Legion team was called off, due to a wet baseball diamond.

How to Store Eggs

MOSCOW, Idaho — (AP) — Eggs ought to be stored in the case with the little end down, reports the College of Agriculture here. In the big end of an egg there is an air sac. If this is kept up, the sac stands less chance of being damaged.

Thales, Greek philosopher who lived from 640 to 546 B.C., often is identified as the "first electrician" because of his observations of frictional electricity and magnetism.

U. S. Prestige in Asia is Due For Boost as Result Of Prompt Military Help

AMERICA'S MACARTHUR and KOREA'S RHEE: The U. S. commander in the Far East expected Russia to be used for soft spots.

By JOHN L. STROHM
NEA Special Correspondent

President Truman's prompt military steps in the Far East will boost United States prestige throughout Asia and strengthen the hand of anti-Communist forces from Formosa to Ceylon.

In every country I visited on my recent 10-week survey of Asiatic hot spots, leaders expressed doubt and fear of U.S. determination to see the battle through in that area.

A leading Chinese business man of Malaya summed it up:

"We never know which way the United States will jump."

Now they know. The masses of Asiatics—and to some extent even their leaders—have no deep convictions regarding democracy or communism. They want a full rice bowl, a house to sleep in, a water buffalo to pull their plow. The average "man in the rice fields" of India or Siam has no more political education than his buffalo.

His leaders are prone to follow a band wagon policy. They want to be aboard the biggest and loudest band wagon; they want to side with the winner.

That is why the stiffest fight against Communist guerrillas which I saw in Southeast Asia was being waged under British leadership in Malaya and French leadership in Indo-China.

In the dispatches which I wrote for NEA service and this newspaper on my return, I stressed the importance of aid to the French in Indo-China. President Truman has now moved to accelerate assistance to fight the Reds on that battle line. Rich resources in food, rubber and oil are thus being protected.

I am sure that a majority of free Asiatic leaders will welcome the American initiative even though it may appear at first look to bring hot water closer. Uncertainty in some cases played the Russian game by sowing doubt.

General Douglas MacArthur made it clear to me when I visited his headquarters in Tokyo that he felt sooner or later it would be necessary to take a stand against Communist aggression—the sooner the better.

I am sure, based on my visit, that the North Korean attack upon South Korea did not take MacArthur's headquarters by surprise. He expected the Russians to prod and push for soft spots. He also believed that they were not prepared to get into war with the United States.

As I see it, these are the country-by-country results of the U.S. action on Korea:

Formosa—Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalists are given a breathing spell behind the shield of the 7th Fleet. They are saved from the man should be real if it is to be effective. The French command there urged: "One supply ship next week rather than 20 when it is too late." That was in April.

Malaya—Rubber planters will be heartened to continue the fight against Red-led guerrillas. The large Chinese population of Malaya which has been fence sitting should be deeply impressed.

India, Indonesia and Burma—If the bold American gesture wins, the weak new native governments will be given time to grow up.

Mrs. B. A. Bridges

A large crowd attended the motion picture show at the Baptist church Saturday evening when Dr. W. L. Murray, head of the department of missions and evangelism at the Central Baptist Seminary, Kansas City, Kas., showed pictures he made while on a 14-week missionary trip in Africa last summer. At the 11:00 o'clock service Sunday morning Dr. Murray told some of the heathen customs and superstitions of the African people.

TRUMAN'S RED-QUARANTINE LINE

President Truman's historic decision—to commit American armed forces to action in South Korea, send naval protection to Formosa and bolster the defenses of the Philippines and Indo-China—closed the final gap in a "Red-quarantine" line extending around the Soviet-dominated world. The long-range, Cold War strategy to create "situations of strength" and oppose Red aggression wherever it threatened has many facets, ranging from the Marshall Plan to the show of Allied determination that kept Red youths from "capturing" Berlin. Its major dramatic peak before Korea—was the victory of the airlift and Russian easing of the Berlin blockade. Informed military observers believe that the Red invasion of Korea was merely the kick-off for stepped-up Communist conquests of Formosa, Southeast Asia and Central Europe. As a major turning point in the Cold War, the 38th parallel in Korea could go down in history as "the place where World War II began," or as one of the great landmarks on the road to world peace.

"Helping Our Youth of Today" Mrs. Huff brought Mrs. Huff home that afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Williams and Marcel and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Williams, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Arnold and family of Buncheon.

Mrs. Clara Huff, who spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Huff and daughter Patricia of Columbia, accompanied them to Pin Oak in South Missouri Sunday, where Patricia entered camp for two weeks. Mr. and man family returned home Sunday. Miss Keever remained for a two-week visit with her sister, Mrs. E. N. Dailey, Mr. Dailey and son Thomas. Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Boulware and son Jim and Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Corley attended the Stierke family reunion at Liberty park in Sedalia Sunday. Mrs. Henderson Taylor visited Marilyn and Howard Dean and last week with her daughter and a Miss Patricia Keever went to Stillwater, Okla., Saturday. The Chap-

First of the Fine Cars in Value

The Car that puts your Best Foot forward

WE think you'll agree that the whole story of an automobile isn't told in its power, its room, its styling, even in its ride.

There is the all-important point about what a car does to you—and that's where ROADMASTER really shines.

For you can't slip into this bonny beauty's broad seats without feeling like somebody pretty special.

When you take its neat wheel in your hand—when you cut loose, with a toe-touch, the rich baritone of its big Fireball straight-eight power plant—when you feel the smooth surge of its Dynaflo-cushioned take-off—

Man, then you know you've got a real automobile!

And don't overlook this:

That graceful sweep of chrome along the fender—found on no other car made today—is a mighty eye-catching note of distinction.

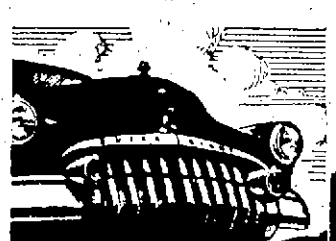

Those four Ventiports, too, cause many a head to turn—they mark you unmistakably as the owner of the biggest and best Buick built—a car as fine and rich as any man has need for.

There are a lot of good, solid, dollars-and-cents reasons for making ROADMASTER your choice over any other car:

Its size. The commanding performance of its 152-hp Fireball valve-in-head straight-eight engine. Dynaflo Drive standard. A ride that's quite matchless in its gentle softness. Distinguished styling from bold, protective front end to gleaming "double bubble" taillight.

But if you're ready for a car that's more than just an automobile—if you want one that puts your best foot forward in any company—that's the real reason for seeing your Buick dealer quickly—to talk turkey about a ROADMASTER.

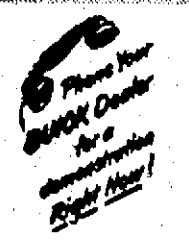

FOUR-WAY FIREFRONT
This rugged front end (1) sets the style note. (2) shows on repair cuts—vertical bars are individually replaceable. (3) avoids "locking horns." (4) makes parking and garaging easier.

Unified Armed Forces Paying Off in Korea

Military Never Moved so Fast or Successfully As it Has in First Action Test of Unification

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Unification of the armed forces is paying off in Korea.

Never has the military moved so swiftly, surely and successfully, thanks to the welding together of the Army, Navy and Air Force. From President Truman's all-important decision to send aid, on down, it has been a Pentagon show, as far as policy and planning are concerned.

Here are the play-by-play details of how unification met its first action test:

For more than a year members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff have known that the Korean situation was explosive. They had prepared several detailed plans of action to fit various emergencies, including the one that occurred. These plans were kept up-to-date, down to the last detail of where every warship was, how many planes were available and who were the current field commanders.

The failure of Far East intelligence men to tip off the exact time and place of the outbreak was a negligible factor.

In a recent 60-day period 30 outbreaks had occurred at the border and a modified alert already existed.

Also, the plan which the President selected called for a brief wait, to see whether or not the South Koreans could put up a defense worth supporting.

On Sunday, June 25, it was the National Security Council, created by the unification law for exactly this purpose, which gathered at the White House. Members are the President, Vice President, Secretaries of State and Defense, and the head of the National Security Resources Board, Stuart Symington.

No previous president ever had an organization like the NSC available to him in a crisis like this. In a few hours the minor adjustments necessary to bring them up-to-date were made in the alternative plans. Then they were laid before the President with all the details in a package.

The one he picked called for tactical air support, employment of the Seventh Fleet, the supplying of arms and equipment, with Gen. MacArthur in top command. It also called for a brief wait to see what the South Koreans would do. When they counter-attacked, before the fall of Seoul, that was evidence enough that U. S. aid wouldn't be poured down a rat hole.

When the President made his decision, MacArthur opened up his part of the packaged plan. It defined his mission and authority, and detailed the command set-up. His staff—a creature of unification with Air Force, Army and Navy commanders working together—was able to begin putting all parts of the overall plan into effect immediately.

All the General had to do was to make the necessary adjustments to fit the tactical situation. The use of ground troops can be fitted into the plan.

The delay and confusion saved by these pre-set arrangements can probably be fully appreciated only by military men who were at Pearl Harbor or who have experienced the difficulties of adjusting such to a situation.

Everywhere in the Pentagon can be seen other evidences of unification's efficiency. Secretary Johnson has been gently ribbed for moving the top brass close to his office. But under the old arrangement it used to take up to half a day to collect the generals and admirals from all over the city. Now it takes seconds to get them in a meeting. And they have direct communications with the White House.

The unified supply organization is paying off. Already the replacement of materials given to South Korea from Japan is under way from Guam. And equipment in Japan was sent out as from a single pool.

Even the newspaper reader is getting immediate direct benefits from unification. The day the news broke, Johnson's press chief, Lee Hargis, began holding two unified press briefings a day for reporters. Representatives from each service fit their part of the story into the whole picture. News out of the Pentagon on the fighting is just about as fast as it is from the front, and more complete. This is unprecedented in war reporting.

Organization experts who are watching the unification machinery carefully in this crisis admit that some bugs will be found in it. Nevertheless close observers believe it is working better than anything America has ever had before.

Only Slight Injuries In Car Wrecks

Property Damage Is Caused In Two Car Accidents on 65

In two accidents, Monday evening, one north of Sedalia on highway 65 and the other south of Sedalia on highway 65, resulted in considerable property damage and only minor injuries suffered by occupants of the vehicles. The State Highway Patrol investigated both accidents.

The first occurred about 4 o'clock, on a curve at the bottom of the Claycomb Hill, about 8 miles north of Sedalia, when two cars sideswiped. A 1949 Buick convertible driven by Dr. James White, who gave his address as both Tulsa, Oklahoma and Memphis, Tenn., was going south and a 1947 Ford coach driven by W. C. Sheridan, 430 North Summit avenue was headed north when the accident happened.

Three Children In Car

With Dr. White were his wife and three children, Kay, 6, Kam, 1, and Bill, 2. Kay received a slight cut on her right hand, the others suffered no more than shock and slight bruises.

Riding with Sheridan were B. E. Barber, 510 East Third street, and A. L. Raza, 205 South New York avenue, all who escaped injury.

The sides of both cars were damaged and the Buick was damaged when it went into a ditch on the west side of the highway.

Sheridan was given a highway patrol summons by Trooper Pete Stohr to appear before the magistrate court Wednesday morning at 10:00 o'clock.

The second occurred about 5:00 o'clock at High Point crossing when a 1950 Oldsmobile coach driven by Ernest E. Diehl, Ft. Scott, Kansas, crashed into the side of an old Plymouth coupe driven by Cad W. Todd, of route 4. Diehl was driving north of the highway and Todd was driving southwest across the highway when the accident occurred.

Diehl, reported to State Trooper Pete Stohr, he saw the Todd car approaching the highway and then, come to a stop. He said he continued and just before reaching the intersection the car driven by Mr. Todd suddenly started up to cross the pavement. "I applied my brakes but it was too late to avoid the crash," Mr. Diehl said.

and son left Tuesday morning for their home in Craig, Colo., after spending their vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sappington.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bowen and daughter Julia were in Kansas City Friday on business.

Captured by Communists

This is a view of the historic gate at the northern edge of the South Korean city of Suwon, which was captured by the advancing North Korean Communist forces. This picture, made in 1948, is a view from inside the city looking north. (AP Wirephoto)

With Diehl in his car were his wife, Mrs. Ina Diehl and daughter, Kay, 5.

The Oldsmobile, which was brand new, was practically demolished as far as the front end was concerned, while the older car the left side of the Plymouth was smashed in and the frame was badly bent.

Mr. Todd and the Diehl family was taken to the Bothwell hospital in the McLaughlin ambulance. Todd was treated by Dr. Don to the regular business, a C. B. Trader, who said he suffered no more than shock and bruises.

The Diehl family was not injured but did suffer shock.

Extension Club Members To Have Quarterly Meeting

All extension club members are expected to attend the regular quarterly meeting of the Pettis County Home Economics Extension Club Council to be held Saturday afternoon, July 8, at the Sedalia Public Library. In addition, Todd was treated by Dr. Don to the regular business, a C. B. Trader, who said he suffered no more than shock and bruises.

Mud Lake Gets "Cleared Up"

County officers got a notice from the government not long ago, asking them to change the name of Mud Lake. Seems it's a pond, not a lake, by government standards.

Because it lies entirely inside our town limits, we asked to do the name-changing ourselves. Figured we'd think up a brand-new name. Mud Lake's really not very muddy—sort of pretty, in fact.

County people said go ahead, so we held a Town Meeting. Everyone suggested something. Windy Taylor thought "Taylor Pond" would be nice, because his place borders it—for about 80 feet! But we finally decided to call it "Turtle Pond" in honor of the real owners.

From where I sit, naming that pond wasn't the most important thing in the world—but the way we did it was. Everyone offered his opinion and then the majority vote decided it. That's the way it should be—whether it concerns naming a pond, or having the right to enjoy a friendly glass of beer at a saloon and when we choose.

But after taking one trial bottle I just can't help but want to pass it on to others. I had to rush home from work and get in bed as soon as possible for fear I wouldn't get enough rest, but still the next day I was tired, worn out and sleepy. My stomach was nervous and upset. And I couldn't eat a thing that didn't give me indigestion. Now I go to work and feel more like getting out in the amusement world when I've finished my day's work. Thanks to HADACOL." (Why don't you try HADACOL.)

C. B. Sutherland, Route 1, Box 62, Collihan, Florida, whose system was so deficient: "I just got my fifth bottle of your HADACOL and I can say it's done me more good than any medicine I ever took. I could not sleep nights and was just as nervous as could be. I kept hearing about HADACOL so I decided to try it. I've just finished my first bottle, but I feel like a new person. My whole life seems different, so I can truthfully and highly recommend HADACOL."

Mrs. A. C. Myrick, General Delivery, Fairhope, Alabama, who had such deficiencies: "Right after my operation I heard about HADACOL. I have taken about six bottles of HADACOL and I feel fine. I am 44 years old and I feel so good since I started taking your HADACOL I must say HADACOL is truly a wonderful product, and I intend to keep it in my home." U. S. Military Want West European Embargo on All Trade to Iron Curtain

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON.—A raging controversy of great importance is being thrashed out secretly inside the National Security Council. It involves the cutting off of all British, French and Western European exports to Russia, which, in turn, would cost Uncle Sam nearly three billions a year.

The issue was brought to a head by letters from Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer and Munitions Board Chairman Hubert E. Howard to the Security Council. These notes ask the State Department to demand that Atlantic pact allies enforce a complete trade embargo with Communist nations.

At present the Atlantic pact nations undertake to curtail shipment of strategic materials to iron curtain countries, but nonstrategic materials have been shipped in normal trade channels for some time; and West European economists point out that it would throw their economy completely out of gear if these shipments were cut off.

They point out that Western Europe depends on the East for grain, ores and raw materials, and as a market for its manufactured goods. In a normal prewar year, 1938, the West-East trade amounted to $3,000,000,000. Last year the figure was $2,600,000,000, despite an embargo on key munitions equipment.

Secretary of State Acheson and ECA Administrator Paul Hoffman laid before the Security Council data to show a shut-off of this trade would bring widespread unemployment, rationing, and political instability in Western Europe. For example, communism is being licked in northern Italy, ironically, because the ship-building industry is making and selling small boats to Poland and Russia.

The State Department has been negotiating for two years to shut down the export of critical items, and Great Britain now has a security list known as "group 17" of banned exports to Communist areas.

But U. S. military leaders take a vigorous view on the sale of various other commodities. They demand, for instance, that duck feathers be placed on the prohibited list, because they are used to line aviators' suits. The generals also demand that all ball bearings, including those used in ball-point pens, be barred from the iron curtain.

W. Averell Harriman, the new "cold war" coordinator, who got into the fight this week, commented: "Instead of trying to overturn the economy of Western Europe, we ought to look at our luxury trade with Russia. Dollars paid for Russian furs are used to buy armaments and strategic materials in South America."

NOTE—Secretary Johnson blames Secretary Acheson for hexing the Sawyer plan to cut off West-East European trade. But what Johnson neglects to say is that Truman himself said "no" on the ground that it would cost the U. S. Treasury at least $2,600,000,000 to compensate for upsetting this commerce.

Atomic Pie

A piece of lemon meringue pie almost put the nation's top general out of commission during the height of the Korean crisis.

Gen. Omar Bradley was weak and running a temperature during the recent White House and Blair house meetings. Finally ordered to the hospital by the President, his illness was diagnosed as food poisoning. The destructive morsel was a piece of lemon meringue pie the general ate at Anchorage, Alaska, en route home from Japan.

When Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson heard this diagnosis, he gulped:

"General Bradley only had one piece of that pie," he said. "I ate two."

Secret Deal

It was Maine's Republican Senator Brewster who slyly wielded the ax on his fellow Maine Republican, Sumner Pike, as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Pike has served in the government for years, having been a GOP member of the Securities and Exchange Commission and a wartime official in OPA. He has also been a Republican member of the Atomic Energy Commission ever since it was established, and is one of the few Republicans chosen by Truman to become chairman of a government agency.

However, Pike follows a policy much closer to the other GOP Senator from Maine, liberal Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith, who does not get along with Brewster. Furthermore, though Brewster did not tell this to other Senators, Pike is thinking of running against him in 1952.

So Brewster worked out a deal, with the backing of Democratic Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia, by which Pike would be defeated for Senate confirmation.

On the surface, Brewster was back in Maine and glum Senator Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa led the GOP-Republican drive against Pike. However, Brewster had made an informal agreement whereby Republicans would vote against Martin A. Hutchinson, a sworn foe of the Senator Harry Byrd machine in Virginia, in return for conservative Democrat votes against Pike.

Hutchinson's nomination for Federal Trade Commissioner was voted unfavorably 5 to 3 by the Senate Interstate committee. Later, when Pike's name came before the Atomic Energy committee, the plot was so well carried out that administration forces were completely taken by surprise.

"What's going on here?" asked the amazed Senator Tom Connally of Texas. "I didn't know anyone was against Sumner Pike. What are the objections?"

None of the GOP-Dixiecrat objectors said a word. Chairman Brien McMahon of Connecticut asked if any member wanted to question Pike. Still silence. Commissioner Henry Smyth asked to be heard for Pike. So did all the other commissioners, including Republican Thomas Murray. Their endorsement was met in silence. Naturally since they could not talk about the deal and could make no real objection to Pike, they had nothing to say.

But when the votes were counted, the committee was 5 to 4, against. All the Republicans plus Republican Ed Johnson of Colorado, said "no." Johnson is chairman of the same committee that said nix to Hutchinson by a secret vote.

Trucks' Effect on Highways Should be Studied Impartially

By Bruce Blomast

The nation's governors believe big trucks are seriously damaging U. S. highways. They blame "deliberate overloading" for much of the harm.

At the recent governors' conference they got support for their views from Thomas MacDonald, U. S. Public Roads Commissioner. He has long charged the trucking industry with consciously violating state laws limiting truck loads.

This whole issue is confused by the conflicting claims of truckers and highway engineers. The Association of State Highway Officials recommends 18,000 pounds per axle as the safe weight for ordinary highway pavements (weight per axle is the critical figure).

But the truckers say the recommended limit is too low. They argue that poor engineering, weathering and other factors have more to do with highway damage than overloading.

They declare further that they will abide by the findings of impartial tests, bearing on the effect of heavy truck loading.

Right now the U. S. Public Roads Bureau is conducting a series of such tests. Bureau officials insist they are strictly down the middle and have no wish to favor one side or the other in this dispute. But it isn't clear that the truckers will accept their tests as sufficiently impartial.

Yet, if they do not rate them satisfactory, it would seem fair from the public's standpoint that they devote their energies to arranging for suitable experiments.

And it would seem proper, too, that they wait until such tests have been made before lobbying in state after state for higher weight limits. Evidence is definite that truckers have already been successful in such a campaign in many states. It is hard to reconcile these activities with their expressed willingness to accept scientific, impartial findings on weight limits.

What if sound tests show that 18,000 pounds per axle is a wise ceiling?

Furthermore, there can be no justification for any deliberate flouting of the load limits, as governor after governor has charged.

No one anywhere is questioning the role of the truck in the U. S. transportation economy. No one wants to rule it off the road—not even the big truck.

The average American, who probably drives a car and almost certainly pays some of the taxes that build U. S. highways, merely would like to be sure that his roads are not abused. He would like to feel that the highway laws in the 48 states reflect the scientific facts about highway damage.

Until these facts can be determined, all legislative action relating to weight limits ought to be suspended. This is MacDonald's advice to the governors, and also the urging of the Council of State Governments. Let's hope the truckers can join to create a united front of all parties concerned with highway safety and maintenance.

No Time For Fashion

In case you missed the fact amid all the hot and heavy bulletins on Korea, it might be well to point out that the war crisis gave Secretary of State Acheson a chance to prove he is human after all.

Acheson seldom ventures forth on public business unless he is dressed to kill. Indeed, his normally impeccable attire is a source of irritation to many in Washington who think it adds to his aloofness.

Well, there was nothing aloof-looking about our Secretary the day he heard of the Korean war. He jumped into his convertible and, hatless and coatless, raced down to his office many miles from his home.

Too bad no one was around to snap his picture at the time. It might have done more to enhance his popularity on Capitol Hill than anything he could say.

GO OVER YOUR MENTAL AND SPIRITUAL ATTITUDES

Some of our lack of physical victory may result from actual structural disease; some of it may result from inadequate vitamin supply—but some of it may result from wrong mental and spiritual attitudes. (8) Go over your mental and spiritual attitudes and ask for the answer to the password: "Do you contribute to physical health?" If they do not, then in all probability they contribute to disease and disruption. For, according to high British medical authority, "there is not a tissue or organ in the body not influenced by the attitude of mind and spirit."

One doctor told a patient that he would remit her fee if she would come and listen to what I was saying on the relationship between mental and spiritual states and health, for the doctor couldn't find a physical basis for the pains she described. The pains were real, she was not malingering; but their origin was in her mental and spiritual condition. She passed on her mental and spiritual sickness to her body.

One doctor commented on my address on this subject: "You are absolutely right, but you didn't tell half." Another comment from a doctor's wife: "My husband says he would die if he harbored resentments." Many people do! Or they live on at a half-dying rate. Another doctor said, "You could have added heart disease as caused by worry and anxiety." Heart disease has increased alarmingly in American life, the death rate rising from one in thirteen during 1909 to one in five in 1926; and this disease now ranks first among the causes of death. The increased worry and anxiety has been responsible for much of this increase. One able doctor said to me, "Fears are the most disruptive thing we can have." Stomach ulcers go up and down with the anxieties of the war. Worry is a frequent cause of constipation. The mind does create or destroy disease.

O God, I see I must be healthy-minded if I am to be healthy-bodied. Give me a mind-purge from all fears and worries and resentments, so that my body will be purged from all crippling disease and weakness. For I would be strong—strong for Thee. Make me the best that I can be. Amen.

No Law Against a Husband Helping With the Housework

Writes a lucky wife: "Do you scrubbing a floor should be considered a woman's job with a husband's helping with the housework—even though his wife doesn't have a job?"

"My husband, of his own free will, often pitches in and helps me around the house, scrubbing the floors, helping with the laundry, washing windows, etc.

"Several of my neighbors have made catty remarks about it—such as 'I don't WANT my husband doing housework. That's a woman's job!'"

"But my husband has an eight-hour work day, five days a week, while, what with an inconvenient house to take care of, and three small children to look after, I work about a 12-hour day. So what's wrong with an able-bodied man's pitching in and helping out if he's willing to?"

Nothing. Nothing at all. You're just lucky that you have a husband who realizes that you need a helping hand now and then and isn't above rolling up his sleeves and going to work.

"Too Undignified?"

Why as back-breaking a job as

WENDY HILLIER, the driver's license said, was 24, five feet five, 114 pounds. Her eyes were green and the data understated that her hair was red. The space reserved for occupation was blank. Confirming her identity were $430 worth of travelers' checks.

"What are you doing so far from Cleveland, Miss Hillier?"

The green eyes stared at me in sullen resentment. This baby was going to be hard to handle.

"Did you ever think of offering a lady a drink?"

"O. K. Name it—maybe I've got it."

She said she would settle for a bourbon nightgown. I made the highball and poured a straight one for myself. I kept a wary eye on her while, for I was taking no chances with this number. I took her the drink and handed it to her. I didn't notice until she had it in her left hand that her right hand was concealed and that a foot was tucked back under the chair. Then it was too late.

A wildcat couldn't have been faster. She threw the contents of the glass into my face, and as I staggered, blinded and aware that I had fallen for the oldest trick in the world, she cocked me with the heel of the slipper she had taken from her foot.

Later I woke up staring at the ceiling. My head ached mightily at the temple.

I washed my temple in shaving lotion, and it burned like fire. I walked out the back way and down the fire stairs knowing well enough that the red convertible would be gone. I had been out nearly an hour and a half. I walked down the alley. No taxi chose to come along at that moment, but a bus and I reached a stop at the same time, and I boarded it. I got off within a couple of blocks of the parking lot containing my car and walked to it. I headed for McGregor's place.

My car is equipped with a short-wave radio, and I turned it on. It was just possible that my failure to show out at McGregor's and arrest the old man would irritate Keever enough that he would put out a pick-up for me.

There was a pick-up for me, all right, but it wasn't the kind I'd thought. It was a pick-up for murder. McGregor was dead, and I gathered from the headquarters syntax that I was wanted for the job.

THE juke box at the Wee Spot kept running full blast for I kept feeding nickels into it. The proprietor and his wife weren't liking it, for they wanted to listen to the radio on the bar. I didn't want them to listen to it, and that's why I kept playing all the loud pieces on the juke box.

I was also eating sandwiches that tasted like paper sacks and drinking beer that was giving me a slightly groggy feeling. But it was the only way that I could keep on using this back-road beer joint as a hideout without stirring up the suspicion of the proprietor and his wife.

The whole story about the four $1000 bills was on the regular wave bands by now, with spot newscasts keeping the public alive to the latest iniquity of Ben Corbett, sometime chief investigator in the office of the attorney general. I was no longer on the payroll, for Keever had announced my suspension.

I could hardly blame him. Shelton had had to level, and the story of the four grand was enough to cook my goose. But when the four grand added up to the murder of poor old McGregor, Keever had a plain right to lose his temper.

ANY man with a sane mind would believe me guilty. McGregor had threatened to expose my acceptance of bribe money if I arrested him, and I had chosen the one way out to prevent arresting him and the consequent exposure. I had sneaked back into the McGregor house, leaving my car in a back road and using the cover of the woodlot at the rear of the house. I had crept up on Shelton, knocked him out with a blow from my automatic, then gone up the stairs and shot McGregor in cold blood.

I wondered if Shelton really thought that. He had been mentioned on the radio because of the assault upon him and because of his statement that McGregor had threatened me with exposure. He had been described as "a friend of the fugitive." I thought that explained to Keever why I would pull anything so crude as sneaking in and killing McGregor with Shelton as a witness to McGregor's threat. Keever would think I had counted on Shelton's friendship to keep him silent about that threat.

Well, I wouldn't have been that stupid. Shelton is a clean-cut kid who would level in a case like that, no matter how much he would hate putting me in a crack.

I still did count on Shelton to come through with all the chips down. That's why I phoned him, telling him to meet me here at the Wee Spot.

IX

SHELTON assured me he would listen to my side of the story when I finally reached him by phone and I had given him directions to the Wee Spot, warning him to watch for a tail.

It was nearly 10 when Shelton showed up. He walked in casually. I greeted him as an old friend and we used one of the four booths. I fed the juke box the last of my nickels. I was that broke. Sure, I had four $1000 bills in my pocket, but the waver of no more value to me than confetti.

I saw Shelton's eyes narrow as he thought about my bribe. I could read his mind—I must have gotten that when old McGregor fought back as I killed him.

I told him about the full allowance of Sammy Berend's $300,000 worth of claims, about Sammy's girl, Wendy Hillier, and the sharp heel of her slipper. I could see the incredulity in Shelton's eyes as I related the latter.

"I know you're thinking, Shelton, that a guy who's been in as many jams as I have and handled as many hoods, wouldn't fall for an old gag like a drink in the face with a heel on top. Well, it's the old ones that get you, Shelton. That gal was greased lightning. It would be interesting to know about her. She's the one who phoned Keever all right, and she's Sammy Berend's girl?"

HE eyed me steadily, then bluntly said: "I'd like to believe you, Ben. But you wouldn't be the first honest cop that's got fed up with being honest and gone wrong. I still like you and regard you as a friend and will continue to do so even if they nail you for this. I wouldn't have risked losing my job to come out here on the sly if that hadn't been so."

"But I'm also an adult with the qualifying I.Q. And this thing looks awfully funny to me. About the funniest is your story of a red-headed girl named Wendy Hillier whom nobody's ever seen with Sammy Berend. Sammy gets around. He's got a girl that he keeps in fur coats and diamond bracelets, but her hair isn't red, it's blonde."

"I know that, but there are few blondes I wouldn't throw over for that redhead. Fortunately, you can check on her. I even remember her address from her driver's license. The moment she opens her mouth, even Keever will realize she's the girl who made the anonymous phone call. From then on, she should be made to talk plenty. That's what I want you to do, Shelton, put Keever on her trail and get the story out of her."

"Why would somebody have a girl phone McGregor and instruct him to send you a $1000 bill—unless you were that somebody?"

I shook my head.

Shelton was eying me with brutal frankness. He was still my pal, but he wasn't blinding himself to what his mind told him made sense. He rubbed the back of his head.

"I'd hate to find conclusive proof that you put the slug on Ben. But if I ever do, we'll really have a battle—that's a promise."

"Tell me what happened, Shelton."

"Well, I set around about an hour. Then I heard a movement in the house and wondered if old McGregor had got downstairs some way. So I walked like a look through the doorway and got it from somebody standing at the side."

"I didn't fall down through a Murphy pit the way the guys do in the books—I just woke up later with a headache. Then I went upstairs and found McGregor, still in his chair, slouched over on his right side. He'd been shot through the face, right at the bridge of his nose."

"Powder marks?"

"No. Not even a cartridge case lying around, and I took for granted it had been done with a revolver, which turned out to be a fact. A .32. The slug hadn't gone through the back. I started to reach for the extension phone in the window sill to call Keever then got better sense and went downstairs and made the call. When the sheriff and his gang came out with Keever I had to tell the truth about McGregor's threat. By that time Sylvia McGregor and Lew Jeris had got back."

"Quite a blow to the girl, I suppose."

SHELTON grimaced. "Not so bad as you might think. Neither she nor Jeris had been able to scrape up more than a couple of thousand bail. And they'd both gone separate trails, trying all of McGregor's friends and meeting just before they drove back. Sylvia was so downhearted that she seemed to take her father's death with something like a feeling of relief. Maybe the old boy is better off at that."

"Hm—maybe she figured that way when he was still alive."

Shelton frowned. "Don't try to tell me the idea that Sylvia killed the old man herself to put him out of his misery!"

"Nevertheless, it would be well to check on the calls both she and Lew Jeris made. Especially Jeris. Ever since I found out about how Sammy Berend had enough inside dope on the finances of McGregor's insurance company to time his damage suits so he would wreck it, I've wondered where he got his information. McGregor might have smelled a rat and thrown a strong hint. In that case Lew Jeris would have plenty of reason to murder him."

Shelton shook his head. "No said, Ben. It all comes back to this—if you're innocent of McGregor's murder, you're innocent of soliciting a bribe. In that case McGregor's murderer framed you on the bribe. Now tell me one good reason why Lew Jeris would fool with the bribery frame?"

that he had arrived at a solution to settle the park board problem. He moved that the number of park board officials be increased from five to six. He then added that he would give the councilmen the man they wanted and the three that he proposed in the past meetings. The men were: Harry Walsh, 711 West Broadway; J. M. Cunningham, 1801 South Stewart avenue; A. W. Haller of the Broadway Arms and William E. Miller, 1212 East Fifth street. The councilmen approved of the appointments and all voted "yes" by roll call vote.

Hospital Cook Appointed

The problem of the two Negro cooks for hospital No. 2 was brought up by the mayor. The mayor submitted the name of Mildred Shobe for the position and Councilman Summers voiced an objection and a discussion followed. It was decided to let the appointment rest until an investigation could be made. Harry Moore, councilman of the second ward was granted the floor and he suggested the name of Dorothy Burnham for the cook position. Mayor Studer said that he would not accept such a motion. He said that it was the mayor's job to submit names for appointment and he intended to retain that right. He said that if the council went on and took it upon themselves to make such an appointment, that he would refuse to sign the cook's check. Moore then appealed to the council with his motion. The motion was then seconded by Councilman Ellsworth and the council voted "yes."

Mayor Studer at this point said that the councilmen, with the action of by-passing him on the appointment were taking away his right to appoint city officials. "I will not pay her salary unless made to do so by the courts," he added.

Reject George Maness

A discussion from Councilman Summers followed and the mayor then read an opinion from the new city counselor, Chester Wolfe, who in his advisement, said that such an appointment in his opinion was not legal.

George Maness was suggested for the position of license inspector. All councilmen voted no with the exception of Councilman Smethers. Studer then asked the councilmen if they would reconsider the men he offered for the hospital board. There was no discussion.

A petition was read by Councilman J. M. Reed concerning the bus services that formally covered Twenty-fourth street and the North Osage areas. In the petition, signed by about two hundred residents of the Twenty-fourth street area, the residents complained that the new route of the bus did not serve them adequately. A discussion followed. Mayor Studer said that the streets in the route formerly used by the bus were in fair condition with the exception of the approaches to the railroad crossings. The mayor then requested Mr. Chester Wolfe to look into the matter and to see the railroad officials concerning the approaches to the railroad tracks. The mayor requested Councilman Moore to in-

parents Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Miller near Green Ridge. A fried chicken dinner was served to the following: John Hays, Carolyn Morgan, Glen Young, Russell Hays of Sedalia; Leonard Howery, Ionia; Beverly Clevenger, Green-wood, and members of the Mil-lan party at the home of her form the bus company of the proceedings of the meeting concerning the bus routes and petition and to have them route the bus back along its original route as soon as the streets are repaired.

Ridicule The Council

Following the meeting the mayor asked if there was anyone in the audience who wished to say something. Glenn Lewis, commander of American Legion Post 16, here was granted the floor and said that this was his second visit to the Council meetings and he and the members of the legion were naturally interested in good government. He continued with "I haven't seen good government here tonight." He went on to say that he thought it was trite for the councilmen to quibble over such matters as rumors concerning certain people up for appointments. He closed his comments with "I think the city should buy the councilmen eight pairs of short pants so they might look like little boys as well as act like them. I'd like to see Sedalia grow and too much time is being spent on petty politics."

Mr. Lewis was presented by Mayor Studer recently as a member of the Bothwell hospital board but his name was rejected by the council.

A discussion was led by Louis Williams 203 West Clay street. He complained of burning trash. Sanitation officer, Willis Jahn said that the matter would be taken care of.

The following beer licenses were renewed: Viola Miller, 317 West Pettis; Pete Drenas, 420 1/2 South Osage avenue; Harry O'Nealy, 212 East Second street.

Councilman lastly requested and obtained approval of the council for purchase of $1255 worth of fire hose for the fire departments. He said that the hose was needed now in answer to questions from Councilman Summers.

W. B. Mountjoy was granted a renewal of merchant's license for the sale of musical instruments at 1629 South Park avenue.

A letter from the Shell construction company, employed by the city for the sewer construction work, was read by the clerk stating that due to the fact that certain materials were hard to obtain in recent weeks the company was seeking an extension of time for the completion of the work. The council passed its approval and the extension of time was granted.

It's Barnyard gossip....

By A. B. WARREN SCREW WORMS and PINKEYE
 These are two very prevalent ailments during the summer months. Screw worms should be treated first by killing the worms with either Peters Screw Worm Killer, Franklin's Screw Worm Killer or with chloroform. Any of these can be best applied with a small syringe. This gives enough pressure to get the killer in deep where it will be most effective. Then a protective coating of Suncar 62 should be applied to prevent recurrence.
 Pinkeye is probably best controlled by the use of one of the "Sulfas." Lederle's sulmet Emulsion in the new Plastic Squeeze bottle is one of the best and most convenient to use.
